

HEALING FOR THE HOMES SERIES

LORD, I BLASPHEMED

*A broken and a contrite heart—
These, O God, You will not despise.*

— PSALM 51:17

Overcomers
Global Network

EDUCATE , EQUIP , EVOLVE

BY JOSHUA MATTHEWS

DEDICATION

This booklet is dedicated to every soul tormented by the fear that they have crossed a line with God that cannot be uncrossed. You may have spoken words against the Lord in anger, ignorance, or moments of deep pain. You may carry the dread that you have committed the unforgivable sin. If you are grieved and want mercy, there is strong reason to believe that mercy is still available to you. Read on — not in fear, but in hope.

A MESSAGE FROM THE FOUNDER

Dear Reader,

Few spiritual fears are more tormenting than the belief that one has blasphemed God beyond the possibility of forgiveness. Many believers live under this weight — terrified that a word spoken in anger, an intrusive thought they did not invite, or a season of rebellion has permanently severed them from God's mercy.

In pastoral ministry, this is one of the most common spiritual torments encountered. Many people struggle with this fear, and it is essential to address it with both truth and compassion — not giving false assurance, but also not crushing the wounded heart that still desires God.

In this booklet, I will carefully show you what the Scriptures teach about blasphemy, what the unforgivable sin actually is, how to discern the difference between conviction and torment, and how to walk forward in repentance and faith. This is a serious subject. Let the Word of God be your anchor, not your emotions.

Joshua Matthews\nFounder, Overcomers Global Network

With all my love in Christ,

Joshua Matthews

Founder, Overcomers Global Network

The Cry of the Soul

The fear is constant. It wakes you up at night. It follows you into church. It whispers during worship and screams during prayer: "You have gone too far. God will not forgive you. You have committed the unpardonable sin."

Some believers carry this torment because of words they spoke in anger — perhaps against the Holy Spirit, against God's character, or against something sacred. In a moment of rage, pain, or doubt, they said something they immediately regretted. And now they cannot take it back.

Others carry this fear because of intrusive thoughts — unwanted, disturbing thoughts about God that flash through the mind without invitation or permission. These thoughts feel like blasphemy, and the person is horrified by them, believing their own mind has betrayed them into the unforgivable.

Some are tormented because they walked away from God for a season and lived in deliberate sin. Now that they desire to return, the enemy whispers, "You cannot come back. You crossed the line. The door is shut."

And still others have heard Matthew 12:31 preached without proper explanation, and the fear has lodged itself in their souls like a splinter — small enough to be invisible to others, but agonizing to the one carrying it.

If you are reading this and your heart is grieved, if you desire mercy, if you want to come back to God — hold on. There is something critical you need to understand about what blasphemy against the Holy Spirit actually is and what it is not.

What the Bible Says

Let us look at the passage that has caused so much fear, in its full context:

""Therefore I say to you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven men. Anyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man, it will be forgiven him; but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven him, either in this age or in the age to come.""

— Matthew 12:31–32 (NKJV)

These are serious words from Jesus. But to understand them correctly, you must see the context in which they were spoken.

The Pharisees had just witnessed Jesus cast a demon out of a man who was blind and mute. The man was healed. The crowd was astonished. The evidence of the Holy Spirit's power through Jesus was undeniable — they saw it with their own eyes. And yet the Pharisees said:

""This fellow does not cast out demons except by Beelzebub, the ruler of the demons.""

— Matthew 12:24 (NKJV)

They witnessed the work of the Holy Spirit with full clarity — not in ignorance, not in confusion — and they deliberately, consciously attributed that work to Satan. They called holy power demonic. They looked at the unmistakable hand of God and said, "That is the devil."

This is the context. The blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is not a careless word spoken in anger. It is not an intrusive thought. It is not a season of doubt or even rebellion. It is the deliberate, hardened, fully conscious attribution of the Spirit's clear work to demonic power — by people who knew exactly what they were seeing.

Mark's Gospel provides additional clarity:

""Assuredly, I say to you, all sins will be forgiven the sons of men, and whatever blasphemies they may utter; but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit never has forgiveness, but is subject to an eternal condemnation — because they said, 'He has an unclean spirit.'""

— Mark 3:28–30 (NKJV)

Notice: "because they said, 'He has an unclean spirit.'" The context is specific. This was not doubt. It was not anger. It was not confusion. It was a calculated, willful rejection of what they knew to be God — calling it satanic with full knowledge and hardened hearts.

Now here is what is critical for you to understand: a person who has committed this sin would not be grieved about it. A person who has permanently hardened their heart against the Holy Spirit would have no desire for mercy, no fear of judgment, and no longing to return to God. The very fact that you are reading this booklet, that your heart is troubled, that you want forgiveness — this is strong evidence that you have not committed the unpardonable sin.

The hardened blasphemer does not weep over their sin. They do not seek mercy. They do not tremble at the thought of being separated from God. If your heart is soft enough to be afraid, it is soft enough to be forgiven.

The Root of the Struggle

Intrusive Thoughts. Many believers are tormented by unwanted thoughts about God that are vulgar, blasphemous, or disturbing. These thoughts come without invitation — often during prayer or worship — and the person is horrified by them.

These thoughts are not your thoughts. They are either a neurological pattern (common in anxiety disorders such as OCD) or a direct demonic attack on the mind. In either case, having an intrusive thought is not the same as committing blasphemy. Blasphemy requires willful intention. A thought that distresses you, that you hate and reject, is not a reflection of your heart — it is an attack on your mind.

Words Spoken in Anger or Pain. Some people spoke harsh words about God during a season of extreme pain — perhaps after a loss, a betrayal, or a crisis of faith. They said things they did not truly mean, driven by grief, rage, or desperation.

The Bible shows us people who spoke out of pain. Job said, "Why did I not perish at birth?" (Job 3:11). Jeremiah cursed the day he was born (Jeremiah 20:14). David accused God of abandoning him (Psalm 22:1). Yet none of them were condemned for speaking honestly from their anguish. God does not punish lament. He receives it.

If you spoke against God in pain and now regret it, your regret is evidence of a heart that loves Him. Come back to Him. He receives the broken and contrite.

""The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit, a broken and a contrite heart — these, O God, You will not despise.""

— Psalm 51:17 (NKJV)

Words Spoken in Ignorance. The Apostle Paul gives us one of the most powerful testimonies regarding blasphemy and God's mercy:

""Although I was formerly a blasphemer, a persecutor, and an insolent man; but I obtained mercy because I did it ignorantly in unbelief. And the grace of our Lord was exceedingly abundant, with faith and love which are in Christ Jesus.""

— 1 Timothy 1:13–14 (NKJV)

Paul was a blasphemer. He openly opposed Jesus Christ, persecuted the church, and participated in the murder of believers. Yet he obtained mercy — because he acted in ignorance and unbelief. He did not blaspheme with full knowledge and a hardened heart. He was deceived and mistaken. And God, in His mercy, forgave him and made him an apostle.

If you spoke against God in ignorance, confusion, or unbelief — Paul's testimony is for you. God is merciful to those who did not understand what they were doing.

The Difference Between Conviction and Torment.

This is a crucial distinction that every believer must learn:

Conviction comes from the Holy Spirit. It is specific, clear, and leads you toward repentance. It says, "You have sinned. Come back to God.

There is mercy available." Conviction produces hope and a path forward.

Torment comes from the enemy. It is vague, overwhelming, and leads you toward despair. It says, "You are beyond hope. There is no mercy for you. Give up." Torment produces hopelessness and paralysis.

If what you are feeling is a crushing, hopeless dread with no path to restoration — that is not the Holy Spirit. That is the accuser of the brethren (Revelation 12:10) working to keep you in chains of fear.

The Holy Spirit convicts you in order to restore you. Satan torments you in order to destroy you. Learn to tell the difference, and you will find freedom from this prison.

Instruction in the Word

Blasphemy is a serious matter in Scripture. The word itself means to speak against, to revile, or to slander — particularly when directed at God. The Bible treats it with gravity, and so should we. God's name, His character, and His Spirit are holy and must be honored.

However, the Word also reveals a God who is rich in mercy to the repentant:

""Seek the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.""

— Isaiah 55:6–7 (NKJV)

He will abundantly pardon. Not grudgingly. Not partially. Abundantly — overflowing with mercy for the one who returns.

""For whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved.""

— Romans 10:13 (NKJV)

Whoever. Not "whoever except you." Whoever calls — in sincerity, in repentance, in faith — shall be saved. The promise is universal for the repentant heart.

Christ's Healing and Restoring Power

Jesus spoke some of His most compassionate words from the cross:

""Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they do.""

— Luke 23:34 (NKJV)

While being crucified — the most unjust act in human history — Jesus asked the Father to forgive those doing it. If Christ can extend forgiveness to His own murderers, He can certainly extend it to you.

Peter denied Jesus three times — cursing and swearing that he did not know Him (Matthew 26:74). Yet after the resurrection, Jesus did not condemn Peter. He restored him. Three times He asked, "Do you love Me?" and three times He recommissioned him: "Feed My sheep" (John 21:15–17). The one who denied Christ became the one who preached the first sermon of the church at Pentecost.

If you have spoken against God in any form — whether from anger, ignorance, pain, or confusion — and you now desire mercy, come to Him. He is not turning you away. He is calling you back.

""Let us therefore come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need.""

— Hebrews 4:16 (NKJV)

Come boldly. Not timidly, not in hiding, not in despair — but boldly, knowing that the blood of Jesus has purchased your access and that the mercy of God is available to those who repent.

The Way of Righteousness

After receiving God's mercy, you are called to walk forward in reverence and faith:

1. Guard your tongue. The Word teaches that the tongue has power of life and death (Proverbs 18:21). Let your speech honor God — in public and private, in anger and in peace.

2. Renew your mind. Replace tormenting thoughts with the truth of Scripture. Memorize verses about God's mercy, His faithfulness, and His character. When the enemy replays your past, respond with the Word.

3. Practice reverence. Develop a healthy, loving fear of God that keeps you mindful of His holiness. This is not a fear that produces torment — it is a reverent awareness that God is holy and His name is to be honored.

Practical Steps to Walk Forward

1. Confess to God specifically. Tell Him exactly what you said or thought. Do not hide it. He already knows, and confession is the pathway to cleansing.

2. Repent sincerely. Turn your heart away from whatever led to the blasphemous words or thoughts. If it was anger, deal with the anger. If it was pain, bring the pain to God for healing.

3. Reject the spirit of torment. If you are being tormented by obsessive fear, command it to leave in the name of Jesus. This is not conviction — it is harassment. Use your authority in Christ against it.

4. If you struggle with intrusive thoughts, seek help. Speak with a pastor or Christian counselor. If the thoughts are neurological (OCD-related), professional treatment alongside spiritual support can bring tremendous relief.

5. Receive God's forgiveness by faith. Once you have confessed and repented, choose to believe what God has said. First John 1:9 is His promise. Take Him at His Word and stop punishing yourself.

6. Build a lifestyle of worship and reverence. The best antidote to blasphemy is worship. Fill your life with praise, with gratitude, and with the beauty of God's presence. A heart full of worship has no room for irreverence.

7. Memorize and declare Scripture. When the fear returns (and it may), respond with the Word. Say aloud: "There is therefore now no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus" (Romans 8:1). Declare it until the truth displaces the lie.

Healing Prayer

A Prayer of Repentance for Blasphemy

Father God, I come before You in the name of Jesus Christ with a broken and contrite heart. Lord, I have spoken words that were dishonoring to You. Whether in anger, in pain, in ignorance, or in moments of spiritual attack — I confess them to You now. I repent. I turn from every word, thought, and attitude that has dishonored Your holy name. I ask for Your mercy, which Your Word says is abundant to the repentant. I believe that the blood of Jesus is sufficient to cleanse even this. Wash me, Lord. Restore my fellowship with You. I will honor Your name with my mouth from this day forward. In Jesus' name, amen.

A Deliverance Prayer Against Spiritual Torment

In the name of Jesus Christ, I take authority over every spirit of religious torment, obsessive fear, and condemnation that has been assigned to my mind. You are not the Holy Spirit. You are a tormenting spirit, and I command you to leave me now. I reject every lie that says I am beyond forgiveness. I reject every voice that says the door is closed. The blood of Jesus speaks mercy over my life. The Word of God says whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved. I call on Him now, and I am saved. I am forgiven. I am free. Leave my mind, in Jesus' mighty name. Amen.

A Prayer for Peace of Mind

Lord Jesus, You are the Prince of Peace. I ask You to flood my mind with Your peace right now. Where there has been torment, bring rest. Where there has been fear, bring faith. Where there has been obsessive dread, bring the assurance of Your love. Let the peace of God that surpasses all understanding guard my heart and mind in Christ Jesus (Philippians 4:7). I receive Your peace today. In Your name, amen.

Prophetic Declarations

"I am not beyond God's mercy. His blood covers every confessed sin."

"The torment is not from God. I reject it and receive His peace."

"My grief over my words is evidence that my heart is still soft before God."

"Like Paul, I have obtained mercy. God's grace is exceedingly abundant."

"I will honor the Lord with my mouth. My tongue is an instrument of worship."

"I am forgiven. I am cleansed. I am restored."

"No weapon of condemnation formed against me shall prosper."

"I come boldly to the throne of grace and I find mercy."

"God is not turning me away. He is calling me back."

"The blood of Jesus speaks better things than my failures."

Reflection Questions

Reflect on These Questions

1. What specifically are you afraid you said or thought against God? Write it down — bringing it into the open removes its power over you.

2. Was it spoken from a place of hardened, deliberate rebellion — or from anger, pain, ignorance, or unwanted intrusive thought?

3. Do you desire God's mercy right now? Does your heart grieve over what happened? If so, take that as a sign that your heart is still responsive to God.

4. Have you been confusing conviction with torment? What are the differences between what the Holy Spirit sounds like and what the enemy sounds like?

5. Have you confessed this to God and repented? If so, will you now choose to receive His forgiveness by faith — even if the feelings have not caught up yet?

6. What practical steps can you take to guard your tongue and renew your mind going forward?

7. Is there a mature believer or pastor you can speak with about this burden? You do not have to carry this alone.

Child of God, the mercy of the Lord is deeper than your worst moment. The blood of Jesus reaches further than your darkest word. If your heart is broken before Him, He will not turn you away. Come to Him now — with honesty, with repentance, and with faith. He is merciful to the repentant. Always.

A CLOSING PRAYER

Father God, in the mighty name of Jesus Christ, I bring before You this reader who is tormented by fear. Lord, You know their heart. You know whether their words or thoughts were spoken from a place of hardened rebellion or from a place of pain, ignorance, confusion, or intrusive mental attack.

For the one who is grieved, the one who desires Your mercy, the one whose heart is still soft before You — I ask You to release them from this torment. Let them know that You are merciful to the repentant. Let the peace of Christ guard their heart and mind.

I take authority over every spirit of condemnation, religious torment, and obsessive fear. You have no right to torment a child of God who is seeking the mercy of the Father. Release them now, in Jesus' name. I decree peace. I decree mercy. I decree that the blood of Jesus Christ is sufficient for every sin that is confessed and repented of. In the name of Jesus Christ, amen.

AN INVITATION TO CHRIST

If you have never accepted Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior, or if you desire to recommit your life to Him fully, pray this prayer: "Lord Jesus, I come to You with a humble and repentant heart. I confess that I have sinned — in my words, in my thoughts, and in my actions. I ask You to forgive me. I believe You died for my sins and rose from the dead. I receive Your mercy today. I surrender my life to You — my past, my present, and my future. Be my Lord, my Savior, and my peace. Fill me with Your Holy Spirit. In Jesus' name, amen."

OVERCOMERS GLOBAL NETWORK

Visit us online: <https://www.overcomersglobalnetwork.com/>

Visit OGN University for free online courses for your journey in Christ:

<https://www.ognuniversity.com/>

Visit us in person and witness and testify of the power of God:

7519 Mentor Ave Suite A106, Mentor, OH 44060

LORD, I BLASPHEMED

This booklet is for the soul tormented by the fear that it has gone too far. If guilt, regret, and fear have convinced you that there is no hope left, this Healing for the Homes booklet will guide you through scripture, repentance, truth, and prayer. Joshua Matthews points the reader back to the mercy of God and the hope found in returning to Christ with a broken and sincere heart.

Run back to the mercy of God.

Overcomers
Global Network
EDUCATE , EQUIP , EVOLVE

By Joshua Matthews

Visit us online: overcomersglobalnetwork.com

Free online courses: ognuniversity.com

Visit us in person: 7519 Mentor Ave Suite A106, Mentor, OH 44060